

RELEASE OF VIDEOWEB ACTIVITIES DATASET

The Videoweb Activities Dataset is a collection of videos of different human activities from a network of cameras. The dataset consists of the videos, annotation of the activities and a brief explanation of the format. It has been collected purely for research purposes and its use should be limited purely to research. It is being made available to the broad community with the following understanding.

- UCR retains all ownership rights in the data.
- Any recipient of the data should not distribute it further.
- Recipients must use the data solely for research.
- While UCR has spent considerable effort in collecting and annotating this data, we cannot guarantee complete accuracy of the annotation or the usefulness of the data for any particular research problem. Therefore, we are not under any obligation to modify the data according to the recipient's needs.
- While results from analysis of the complete data may be presented, images presented in any publication must be limited to those available in the videos at <http://www.ee.ucr.edu/~amitrc/Dataset.htm>. These videos will be provided in a separate folder ("Publication Videos") as part of the released dataset.
- All publications on this dataset must acknowledge the source of the data as "UCR Videoweb Activities Dataset".
